

Write2Heal

Month Six

Write a dialogue in which you leave out what you are truly trying to say.

What are you not saying?

What statement are you making by leaving this stuff out?

How can you imply what you mean without coming out and saying it directly?

What can you suggest for the reader to get your point?

What images can you bring in?

Too often we don't speak out, we don't say what we mean. We find ourselves spending time spinning tales that never reach a point. If you've ever found yourself in a challenging situation when it comes to clear communication, you need to remember only this: someone left out something important. What are you leaving out, in your life and in your words? Why?

They read from the Book of the Law of God and clearly explained the meaning of what was being read, helping the people understand each passage. ~ Nehemiah 8:8
